The Gazette Force.

The GAZETTE force as at present constituted is composed of 10 members, consisting of an editor, fighting editor, case men, job printer and a devil. Six are English, one German and three Spanish. Nine can talk the English language, one the German. Three are versed in German and three in French. Five can speak the Spanish well, one who can say, quien sabe, and one, caya la boca; one who attends Sunday school occasionally; one is a temperance man; one who will take a drink on his own motion and eight that wont refuse on the motion of another.

There is considerable talk in many quarters, at present, concerning the propriety of sending the hostile Utes to New Mexico. Whether this is intended as a joke or is meant simply as mere talk is very hard to tell at present. Why the Indians should be removed from Colorado, their homes, and sent to New Mexico, is more than any reasonable thinking man can tell. New Mexico is equally as rich a country as Colorado, is not so very far behind that state in point of population, is a better farming country as well as a better grazing country and yet Colorado says, "the Utes must go" that this roving band of thieves must be sent hither to prey upon the defenseless people and to retard the growth of the Territory. If the Indians cannot be sent to the Indian Territory, then let them stay where they are. They can do no more damage there than they can here. The scalp of a Coloradan is no more precious than a New Mexican or any other man. This country has now ceased to be the far off land of myths and visions that it once was; it has become a busy bustling country where live and energetic men live.

The Indians should now be placed under the control of the war department and totally disarmed, so that if they do persist in being useless they will be equally as harmless.

James G. Blaine in his late political canvass talked about taking his hat in hand and going south to talk politics, but when he found that the impulsive Southerners were going to give him a right royal reception gave up the trip. The treatment he would have received would have killed all his blood and thunder speeches. He may go to Louisiana and if he does the exchequer will give him a hearty reception, as it is the opposition of Blaine and other politicians of a like class which enables them to keep themselves in office.

If those Northern speakers are going to Louisiana they had better hurry along. The Democrats are making a thorough canvass, and the state is ablaze with enthusiasm. Democratic meetings, barbecues, processions and clubs in every parish. Now if Louisiana should go Democratic by 40,000 majority, who will be to blame but Blaine and Garfield and Sherman, who refused to go down there and convert the "heathens?"

Jay Gould has bought the Missouri Pacific road and now has full control of the freight business between Kansas City and St. Louis. The merchants of St. Louis are much pleased at the change as it makes that city a terminus or at least a good through point on the Union Pacific railroad. Jay Gould is the great railroad absorber and the only western company he has not been able to control of late is the A. T. and S. F.

A detachment of the care worn veterans of the unfortunate Milk River expedition passed through town yesterday, under the command of Capt. Dodge of the 9th cavalry. They are taking a lot of horses through to Ft. Bayard. The health of the horses is looked after by J. Tempary V. S. of the army, who accompanies them to their destination. Both, men and horses are looking well. This is the brave detachment that came to the relief of Payne and that had all of its horses shot. The boys say the Indians made it hot for them. The command leaves for the south to-day.

This office is now better prepared to do all classes of printing than any in the city. A large stock of type and material just received, and other orders yet to arrive enable us to make the above statement. Business men will do well to patronize the GAZETTE. Commercial printing a specialty. Prices as low as Deaver or Kansas City. Bring along your orders and they will be promptly attended to.

Alexander H. Stevens has stirred up the democratic menagerie, by saying that the South may not come up solid at the next election, and for intimating that the southern leaders are ready to sell out again, for a consideration, as they did on the final counting in of President Hayes. The howling of the rock-rooted democracy, north and south, at the mere thought of such a corrupt bargain and sale, in which they will chance no part, is terrible.

The officials to superintend the taking of the next census have been appointed. They number several hundred in all and each of them will have some hundreds or thousands of deputies so that the census can be taken in one day, June 1 1880. The reports can also all be made out in a short time and the entire work of making the count will be completed in a few weeks.

The DAILY GAZETTE starts off on the second hundred this morning; that is one third of a year; blessed havens of sweet rest are the fifty two Sundays which space out the fifty two weeks in a year. The individuals who run a morning daily six days in the week, know the value of the seventh.

The Hon. L. Bradford Prince, Chief Justice, lectured in Brooklyn, N. Y., before the Long Island Historical Society, Tuesday evening last, on New "New Mexico; its history, people and resources." Judge Prince has been doing a good work for this Territory, during his visit to his old home.

While every other business interest in the United States is booming ship building is in a very unsatisfactory condition and it is expected that Congress will be called on at the next session to pay bounties and give special favors to ship building and ship owning companies.

Chihuahua is again in a state of revolution. The revolutionists are in possession of the capital and general Treviño is marching from Zacatecas with the necessary forces to put down the rebellion. That is an interesting country.

Thirteen Ducks at One Shot.

Edward Lansing, of Lansingburg, is considerable of a hunter, and loses no chances of securing a bit of game to add to his dinner. Yesterday morning, as is his custom, he was walking along the bank of the river near his residence, and reached a rocky bluff known as the "Point of Rocks," opposite the residence of Stevelette McCoy, when, on looking down on the river below him, he espied a fine large flock of wild ducks playing in the water and within easy range. The wary hunter did not spoil his chance with undue haste, but worked around into the most favorable position, and then "let drive" into the flock. There was no time to reload, as the birds that were not mortally wounded took to flight. Mr.

Lansing secured a boat and went out for his game, and picked up thirteen ducks that had fallen victims to that one shot.

New Mexican Mines.

The Hon. Bradford L. Prince, in a letter to the New York Tribune, speaks as follows of the New Mexican mines:

Almost every section of New Mexico abounds in mineral, and the amount of gold, silver, copper, coal and mica within its limits may be called incalculable. I will not enumerate all the localities, but venture the assertion that in less than five years New Mexico will be the great field of American mining enterprise. All that is wanted now is development. The mines of Colfax county are practically useless until the conclusion of the pending foreclosure of the mortgage on the Maxwell land grant sets free the belt of rich mining lands within its limits. The same is true of gold, copper and mica on the Mora grant, now in process of partition. These two great grants, together containing about 2,690,000 acres, have been standing right in the gateway of immigration into the Territory as a kind of barrier; but the next few months will no doubt see the titles of each settled and this vast extent of land, embracing mineral, farming and grazing districts, thrown open to American energy and enterprise. All through the Territory excellent prospects exist but need development. The placers contain millions of dollars in gold dust, but in general can not be obtained for want of water, which can only be had at considerable expense. By meeting that expense an immense return could be insured.

The Cerrillos silver mines are in a most encouraging condition, but need capital for development. They are situated on the very hillside from which the Spaniards extracted unknown millions centuries ago, until the enslaved Indians arose and drove them from the land, and endeavored to destroy every trace of their sufferings, by filling up the mines in which they had labored.

At the Cerrillos are dozens of claims showing excellent veins of "mineral," but very few of the prospectors have the money with which to sink shafts to the distance necessary for profitable results. Around Silver City and Shakespeare there is much mining enterprise, but everywhere there is a necessity for more capital for development. Reports come daily of rich new discoveries, which can no doubt be taken with some grains of allowance; but this much is true, that but a moderate portion of the Territory has been prospected at all, and that the indications are that a short time will develop fields of mining industry which will give employment to thousands of men and millions of capital.

Artesian Irrigation.

A late number of the Washington Star has the following in regard to the redemption of waste lands by irrigation.

Among the question to which the Commissioner of Agriculture has recently been giving his attention is that of the redemption of the comparatively arid tablelands which stretch along the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains from our Northern to our Southern border. The subject is an important one, involving, as it does, the recovery of a tract of country equal to one-fifth of the productive area of the United States. Where it has been possible to subject the land to irrigation an astonishing agricultural richness has been found; but at present facilities for irrigation by means of mountain streams extend no farther than from forty to fifty miles from the base of the range. With the problem of irrigation solved, these plains will come to be rated among the richest agricultural regions of the country.

The Central Pacific Railroad company astonished the Government, the other day, by paying into the Treasury $220,000 on account of its bonded indebtedness. It still owes $600,000. The installment above mentioned was not plunked down cheerfully as an obligation long past due, but under a savage protest from Mr. Hutcheson, and the expression of the hope that Congress would repeal the act which compels the Union and Central Pacific roads to do as they agreed to do when they took the Government money, and talked about making another test case before the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Czarowitz and Czarevna arrived at Berlin and visits were at once exchanged with the Emperor. The renewal of close friendship between the two royal families and the two great powers may be considered as in progress, despite the wild rumor from Cologne to the effect that the Russian forces are being concentrated on the eastern frontier of Germany.

Maine Democrats.

Bangor, Me., 16.—The reports from Augusta of the intention of the Governor and Council to count out Republican majorities in the Legislature, and thus seize control of the State Government for the coming year, were fully credited by leading Democrats here on Saturday, and Republicans who have been inclined to doubt the alleged revolutionary designs have come to regard the threatnings as serious. The perpetration of an act of this character would undoubtedly cause the most intense excitement ever known in the State. Many leading Republicans of this section go to Augusta Monday.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 16.—The situation in regard to the counting out of Republicans and handing over the control of both branches of the Legislature to the Democrats and Greenbackers is unchanged. There is great apprehension concerning the action that is expected from the Governor and Council. The formal count will begin to-morrow, and it is expected a large number of persons will be present in the city. The Republican State Committee of 1879, and the new State Committee of 1880, will meet here to-morrow evening.

President and Party On a Trip.

New York, Nov. 17.—President Hayes, his son Webb C. Hayes, and Secretary Everts arrived to-day from Washington. In the morning many prominent citizens paid their respects to the President at his hotel, and shortly before noon the distinguished party visited a photograph establishment. At 3 o'clock the Seventh regiment marched to the hotel, when the President, Secretary Everts, Mayor Cooper and Geo. Wm. Curtis entered the carriage, drawn by four horses, and were escorted to the new armory of the regiment, where the ceremonies of the opening of the grand fair took place. The mayor presided. Mr. Curtis delivered a short address, and the President declared the fair formally open. The President returns to Washington to-night.

An Elopement Rumored.

New York, Nov. 17.—Much interest has been aroused in the social circles of this city by the rumor that Miss Laura Sickles, daughter of General Daniel E. Sickles, had eloped from Paris on the eve of her proposed departure for this country with her father.

Detroit, Mich. Nov. 17.—Hon. F. C. Beaman, recently appointed United States senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Zach Chandler has declined on account of ill health and Gov. Crosswell this afternoon appointed Ex-Gov. Henry C. Baldwin, of this city, to fill the vacancy.

An American lady writes: "At night my husband comes home with a rush hangs his hat upon the floor, throws his coat upon the first chair, sends his boots flying in another direction, works his feet in his slippers while unfolding his paper, reads, eats, reads again until bed-time, throws his paper down for some one else to pick up, and rushes off to bed. This is the programme, with exceptions, until Saturday night. Sunday morning he bolts his breakfast and tears around while getting into his 'Sunday best,' and rushes off to church; comes home and bolts his dinner (never eats), reads a little, sleeps a little, and away he goes again. When he tries to keep quiet he is sure to make the more noise; if he starts to go around a mud puddle he is sure to step flat into it; if he crosses the room carefully he is sure to kick the table leg or fall over a chair; and let him go to a table where a spare clean cloth has been spread and you will see more of 'decorative art' in five minutes than you ever dreamed could be accomplished in so short a time. He is temperate, naturally kind-hearted, attends strictly to business and pay his debts like a man; was once chaffy and domestic fond of his family and home, but has allowed himself to drift with this rushing, reading habit, until now nothing could break it up short of breaking his neck. Fancy a wife trying to coddle such a streak of lightning."

A special to the New York World, from Utica says, Conkling thinks the Republicans are sure of New York next year, if Horatio Seymour can be kept out of the contest. The Democrats think Seymour can sweep the State by 100,000 majority, and that his nomination is the one thing that would make New York secure beyond peradventure.

The Maine Beet Sugar Company have begun work at their refinery with the new machinery recently introduced. Trenches are digging to hold the beets, which are to be heaped thirty inches high above the surface, and slanting toward the side of the pits, and then covered with hay and six inches of soil. Before the freezing weather comes the beets will be covered with eighteen inches of additional soil taken from the sides of the trenches, which are thoroughly drained. The trenches are also ventilated every fifteen feet so as to cast the moisture from the beets. The object of the trenches is to keep the beets cool and dry until needed. The reports from the country show that a crop of beets supplying two hundred tons a day will be provided, sufficient to run the factory one hundred days.

The readjusters in Virginia appear to have the legislature over the debt-payers. The republicans hold the balance of power, and both parties are bidding for support. The debt-payers offer concessions in the election of a United States senator, while the readjusters boldly bid by offering the repeal of every disqualification of colored men, including the right to sit on juries, the voting tax, etc. The outlook is favorable to the utter break up of the present Democratic conservative party, the perfect enfranchisement of the colored voters and the political redemption of the State. The power of the Democracy in the south may prove to be of very short duration. The disintegrating forces are at work, and, as in this case, occasionally come to the surface.

The crop of cotton of 1878 and 1879 was the largest ever raised. The ten crops of 1852 to 1861 inclusive, being the last crop raised by slave labor, numbered 34,995,440 bales. The ten crops of 1870 to 1879 inclusive being the ten last crops raised by free labor numbered 41,454,743 bales. The excess of the ten years of free labor amounts to 6,459,303 bales. The value of the ten last crops, of which about two thirds have been exported, has been not less than $2,500,000,000 and has probably amounted to $3,000,000,000. The increase is progressive, the excess of the five last crops over the five crops immediately preceding the war has been 3,932,415 bales.
